About FSSA Investment Managers

FSSA Investment Managers is an autonomous investment management team within First Sentier Group, with dedicated investment professionals based in Hong Kong and Singapore. We are specialists in Asia Pacific and Global Emerging Markets equity strategies, managing assets on behalf of clients globally.
We are bottom-up investors, using fundamental research and analysis to construct high-conviction portfolios. We conduct more than a thousand direct company meetings a year, seeking to identify high quality companies to invest in. We look for founders and management teams that act with integrity and risk awareness; and dominant franchises that have the ability to deliver sustainable and predictable returns over the long term. As responsible, long-term shareholders, we have integrated ESG analysis into our investment process and engage extensively on environmental, labour and governance issues.

Performance review

Over the past 12 months, key contributors to performance included Samsung Electronics, as it continued to benefit from strong demand for its high bandwidth memory (HBM) stacks and dynamic random-access memory (DRAM) chips. Given the supply shortages, memory pricing is on an up-trend and is expected to remain strong until at least 2028. Added to this, customers have become more interested in signing longer-term 5-year supply deals to secure memory chips, which increases earnings visibility, reduces cyclicality and enables more effective capacity planning. Taiwan Semiconductor (TSMC) also rose, as its position as the most technically advanced fabricator of leading-edge semiconductor chips is clear, despite whispers of rising competition from Intel and Samsung. TSMC enjoys more than 90% share of leading-edge nodes, and with Artificial Intelligence (AI) demand driving higher profits and strong guidance for the year ahead, the company is accelerating capital expenditure plans to try and narrow the gap between its supply and customer demand. Meanwhile, tight supply should support higher prices and feed into gross margins and profitability, with good visibility through to 2027-28.

On the negative side, Bank Central Asia (BCA) declined on concerns about Indonesia's macro weakness. However, the fundamentals haven't changed: BCA remains one of the best banks in the country – credit costs are low, which leads to high net interest margins and return on assets. Despite the challenging backdrop, BCA's recent earnings results were resilient: CASA growth was robust, while loans to corporates and SMEs grew modestly. Tencent fell despite posting earnings results that were broadly consistent with forecasts, as weaker-than-expected gaming revenue was offset by robust performance in its online advertising business. We believe the decline in the share price reflects ongoing concerns over the perceived slow pace of Tencent's monetisation of AI. Nevertheless, we believe the company's vast WeChat ecosystem and access to data will provide it with strong advantages in the AI era.

Portfolio review

New purchases over the quarter included Voltronic, a pureplay ODM supplier of uninterruptible power supply (UPS) and inverters. The company's playbook is high mix / low volume (<300 units/order) with focus on customisation and a strict adherence to no own-brand development in order to position itself as a top-quality partner to clients with fast turnaround. Given the share price had halved over 2025 (from a high base), the valuation seemed attractive.

We also bought Sunny Optical, a leading Chinese supplier of optical components. The company is gaining market share in camera modules for the automotive industry, and this segment now accounts for a growing proportion of its revenue. Sunny Optical also sees growth opportunities in other areas, such as augmented-reality glasses and industrial cameras for warehouse management. We believe the risk-reward looks attractive.

We sold Axis Bank and used the proceeds to add to Kotak Mahindra Bank, as the valuation gap between the two banks had narrowed and it made sense to switch into higher conviction holdings. We also divested China Resources Beer (CR Beer) as there appears to be limited opportunity for growth in the current challenging environment.

Stock spotlight

Mediatek is one of the largest chip design companies globally. We have been following Mediatek for many years and have witnessed its performance through the cycles. Throughout the ups and downs in its history, its talented engineers and well-aligned management team usually find a way through to the next "big thing". From optical drives for computers to scan CDs, it entered the smartphone supply chain with 2G modem chips and benefited from technology upgrades each year – until it collapsed in 2015-17 amid poor execution and competition from both low- and high-end competitors.

In 2018 Rick Tsai joined Mediatek from TSMC and focused on getting the basics right again. We believe Mediatek has been transformed under his leadership into a better-quality company. In recent years, the company has improved its competitiveness, and we believe its market share will likely remain stable. With the smartphone market now in the mature stages, the company is investing into new areas (ASIC, auto, augmented reality/virtual reality, Internet of Things, artificial intelligence) to diversify and internationalise its business in the long run.

Outlook

We remain optimistic on the outlook for Asian equities. While the Middle East conflict, and its impact on energy prices, has led to elevated short-term market volatility, our quality bias means that our holdings should remain fundamentally resilient. Although Asia is heavily dependent on the Middle East for its energy needs, the emerging markets universe has historically operated in a more inflationary and volatile environment, and we have taken this into consideration in our stock selection.

In the long run, we believe Asia should continue to benefit from the shift towards higher value services-led growth, digital transformation and the ongoing financialisation across the region. Valuations look attractive in comparison to developed markets like the US, while low ownership of Asian equities in global portfolios provides a good backdrop for absolute returns as global liquidity flows eastwards.

As markets start to broaden from their narrow focus on AI, we believe quality businesses owned in the portfolio should do well.

We have invested in companies with high-quality management who think long term and counter-cyclically, operating in industries with deep moats that support predictable and strong returns on capital. They are running businesses with solid pricing power due to strong brands, high switching costs, or strong network effects, and with conservative balance sheets where cash exceeds debt. We are confident that their strong fundamentals will translate into attractive shareholder returns in the long run.

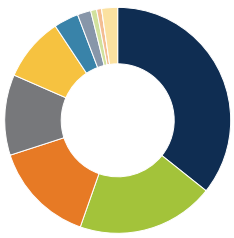

Our long-term investment themes:

- Dominant consumer franchises which have an edge in brand, distribution and innovation.
- High quality financials, supported by a strong deposit franchise or a specific loan niche.
- The rise in healthcare spending, due to increasing incomes and healthy consumer choices.
- Beneficiaries of a smarter, more connected world.
- An ageing population and the growing trend of automation.
